

Cynthea Liu's school visits inform, engage, and inspire!

Most of all, she makes learning about writing, story development, and authorship FUN. She specializes in grades 3-8.

"Cynthea is an outstanding, vivacious presenter! She made writing attainable through her carefree, optimistic style. Her current materials, music, props, etc. were captivating & relevant." – Tammy Beadles, Language Arts Specialist, Briarglen Elem.

"Cynthea Liu was an excellent speaker for our students. She had them engaged immediately. The students learned so much about being an author from her presentation. They enjoyed it tremendously. The teachers were very impressed also. They recommend that we have her back for our third and fourth graders also." Anne Martin, Librarian, Grove Elementary

"I absolutely LOVED the way Cynthea interacted with the students. She gave them a true and engaging picture of how to write. They walked out motivated and inspired!" Lindsey Watts, Middle School English Teacher, Riverfield Country Day School

Presentations

Tell Cynthea the grade level and size of your audience, and she'll work out the rest. Cynthea is very comfortable working with large and small audiences. She can speak to several grade levels in a day without sacrificing quality time with the students.

"Our students enjoyed Cynthea's visit tremendously and look forward to her return visit. What a delight it was for all. Teachers included." Patti Pitcock, Principal, Jarman Elementary

Fees

For Fall 2010, rates begin at $400 for a single presentation to $750 for a full-day. Out-of-town travel expense may apply.

Author Bio: Cynthea spent her formative years in Oklahoma and Texas where she was a Whiz Quiz member, an Academic Decathlon, and a spelling bee champion. (Yes, she was very popular.) But today, her semi-quasi-nerd-esque days are over, and now she does only the really fun stuff - writing for children. Cynthea is also the woman behind the popular nonfiction book Writing for Children and Teens: A Crash Course, and www.writingforchildrenandteens.com, a top ten Web site on the subject.
